Captive Cleveland Bride Is Freed After Shootings

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A young bride held captive over the weekend by a former boyfriend was freed and carried from a suburban University Heights home today.

Lida Caldwell, 19, was carried out of the home and put into an ambulance which sped away.

The girl appeared to be conscious but there was blood on her clothing near the abdomen.

A few minutes later, Robert Batch, 23, who held the girl captive at gunpoint, was carried from the house and put into an ambulance.

Batch had splashes of blood on his T-shirt at the chest and appeared unconscious.

University Heights police said both had been shot.

The two were taken to a Cleveland hospital.

Police said Batch took Lida to his apartment after shooting her husband, Charles, 18, in the face at their home Saturday afternoon. They had been married on Friday.

Caldwell was reported in fair condition in a hospital.

Police said Batch and Mrs. Caldwell had been in Batch's flat since at least Sunday morning and possibly since some time Saturday.

About 4 a.m. today, police said, three shots rang out from the apartment on the top floor of a three-story suburban University Heights house. One shot knocked out a searchlight set up outside the house and the other two shots were unaccounted for. Six more shots were heard from the house about dawn, police said.

A few policemen were allowed into the apartment by Batch. They reported that they talked briefly with Batch, who sat on the floor in his bedroom with the girl lying over his lap. He held his pistol at her temple part of the time, the policemen said, but she appeared to be unharmed.

On Sunday, Batch threatened to kill the girl if police attempted to rescue her. Police Chief Donald J. Stehlik said she had one good chance to run from the apartment Sunday night but apparently was too frightened to move.

Crowds gathered in the area around the house through the night. The house was dark inside, but police played searchlights on it.

"If you don't get out, I'll shoot her," Detective Alan Schultz, quoted Batch as saying in answer to pleas Sunday that he release young Mrs. Caldwell.

Roman Catholic priests and relatives of Batch also tried unsuccessfully to talk the young man into ending the hours of terror. Relatives who talked to him were a brother, sister and brother-in-law.

Caldwell, wounded in the face, was taken to St. Vincent Charity Hospital from the couple's East Side apartment. He was reported in fair condition. Police said he identified Batch as the person who shot him.

Police said they went to Batch's apartment about 8:40 a.m. Sunday to talk to him about the shooting and discovered the girl was there. Officers said they did not know how long the girl had been there.

Batch's mother, Martha Smith, 50, of Johnstown, Pa., said her son tried to kill himself in April 1966 when a girl he had dated said she would not marry him.

Equal Canada Wage Asked Of Chrysler

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers negotiating with their No. 2 strike target, Chrysler Corp., are expected to press for "the only major thing" they didn't win from their No. 1 target, — equal pay for Canadian and American workers.

"Canadian wage parity is going to be a very crucial issue in these negotiations. It's a top priority item," Douglas Fraser, UAW Chrysler Department director, said Saturday after the union decided to take the contract won from its No. 1 target, Ford Motor Co. to Chrysler before going to General Motors.

After the 49-day Ford strike, Walter P. Reuther, union president, said Canadian wage parity was "the only major thing we didn't win."

The union did not press that demand at Ford, Reuther said because Ford of Canada is not wholly owned subsidiary of its parent company as are Chrysler and GM of Canada. And, he added, the union's Canadian contract at Ford does not expire until Dec. 1.

Nov. 15 Strike? The UAW contract at Chrysler's Canadian firm runs out Nov. 15. The union could pick that date for a new strike deadline in American negotiations.

Union and company bargaining teams were to return to subcommittee meetings today at Chrysler in Detroit at 9:30 a.m. Both sides said some progress has been made since serious negotiations resumed Saturday. UAW employees at Chrysler and General Motors have been working without contracts since Sept. 6.

There is a possibility a strike deadline will be set within a week, Jerry Hartford, head of public relations at the UAW's American and Canadian operations in Windsor, said.

"That date could be Nov. 15," he added.

Ford Still Down "If Chrysler were to accept the pattern of the U.S. Ford settlement," Hartford said, "it would still take a number of days of bargaining in good faith to settle areas that are different."

"It's inconceivable," Fraser said Sunday, "the Chrysler negotiating committee would accept anything less than the Ford pattern."

At Ford the union won roughly a dollar an hour more in wages and fringe benefits for three years over the $4.70 old hourly average for Big Three workers. The old straight-time hourly wage for U.S. autoworkers was $3.41, about 40 cents above the Canadian level.

Despite the new contract, Ford operations remained shut down as 21 of the UAW's 101 Ford locals have not yet settled individual plant contracts.

Strike Unlikely Although maintenance workers have returned to some operations, a Ford spokesman said no general back-to-work order would be given until all the local plants are wrapped up.

In the UAW strikes, Chrysler's American and Canadian operations on Nov. 15, it would be the first such simultaneous strike on both sides of the border in the union's 30-year history.

Many industry observers, however, feel that a strike against Chrysler is unlikely and that the UAW will save what muscle it has left for General Motors. The auto giant's refusal to allow UAW committeemen to devote all their working time to union duties has long been a thorn in the union's side.

The UAW has favored wage parity between its Canadian and American members for a long time.

It did not become an emphatic demand, however, until after the Automotive Products Trade Act of 1965, which opened the gates of free trade in automobiles and auto parts across the border.

Vote On Bonds DOWAGIAC (AP)—School district residents voted today on a $1.89 million bond issue for a new elementary school in the Twin Lakes area and additions to the Sister Lakes, McKinley and Patrick Henry elementary schools.

Pope's Illness Eases; Prepare For Operation

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI's doctors announced today that after a relapse over the weekend his fever is going down and he has begun a period of rest to build him up for the operation to correct his prostate ailment.

The announcement by the Vatican press office said the date of the operation has not been set. The relapse touched off speculation that the surgery might be delayed.

Exhausted by one of the most strenuous months of his 32-month reign, the 70-year-old pontiff "passed a restless night with a rising temperature," said Sunday night the Vatican.

The new episode of illness does not cause concern, it said later, but the Pope canceled plans to appear Sunday at the canonization of saint and ceremonies concluding the first meeting of his world Synod of Bishops.

The relapse put in question how soon he will be strong enough to undergo the operation that had been expected next week.

It was the Pope's second relapse since he fell ill with an acute inflammation of the urinary system Sept. 24. Doctors said the ailment was caused by an enlarged prostate.

Neither the condition nor the operation to correct it are usually regarded as serious but, uncorrected, the condition can cause chronic discomfort and infection.

Doctors brought the inflammation under control with rest and antibiotic injections in September. This enabled the Pope to put off the operation until after a month which included the synod, the first world congress of Catholic laymen in 10 years and a three-day meeting with Orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras.

Athenagoras left Saturday. When the synod ended Sunday, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Giovanni Benelli read the Pope's farewell speech to the bishops who had gathered to advise him on affairs of the Church.

Four prelates acted for the Pope at the canonization of Brother Benilde of France, a 19th century teacher in the Christian Brothers order.

Weekend Auto Crashes Kill 22

By The Associated Press In one of the worst nonholiday weekends of the year, 22 persons lost their lives in Michigan traffic this weekend, including a Detroit man who was struck down by a hit-and-run driver.

The hit-and-run victim was 63-year-old Benjamin Czukowski, who was run down while crossing M 53 on Detroit's East Side Sunday.

Three other victims were pedestrians, 10 died when their cars ran off the road and eight were killed when their autos collided with another vehicle.

The Associated Press count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended midnight Sunday.

Another Plane Falls Near Iron Mountain

Two Die In Marquette Fire

MARQUETTE (AP)—Four explosions followed three quick explosions in a restaurant here at 9:24 last night, took the lives of Theodore Kaluz, owner of the building and his wife, Diana.

She was found in a rooming house, and her body was not found in a rooming house.

Eight persons were in the restaurant when the explosions occurred. Customers were fleeing in the panic and three members of the restaurant staff were on duty.

A child in one of the families living upstairs was reported to be taken to a hospital today for treatment.

The cause of the explosions was not known. The building was a three-story structure. A fire investigation was under way.

Kaluz was vice president of Marquette Supply Co., and former operator of Ted's General Sales. Sixty-five cases of rifle ammunition and a quantity of lantern fuel in which he dealt were found in the building but did not ignite.

The restaurant was established two months ago. The building formerly housed the South Side IGA store.

MICHIGAN GOV. George Romney takes it all in stride as Barry Goldwater tells a $25-a-plate audience he is for Richard Nixon. Goldwater was master of ceremonies at the GOP gathering. Romney was the guest speaker. (AP Wirephoto)

Romney Pounds LBJ Credibility

By The Associated Press Michigan Gov. George Romney, seemingly picking up the tempo and stiffening the tenor of his attacks on President Johnson, continues today his five-day swing through New England.

The Republican governor, who has said he'll enter the New Hampshire primary March 12 if he decides to seek the presidency, rested in that state Sunday after launching two strong verbal assaults on Johnson.

In a speech at Burlington, Vt., Romney told an audience of 1,500 Saturday night that Johnson's administration is "discredited and discredited at home and its lack of credibility at home is eroding America's credibility abroad."

Earlier Romney told a meeting of GOP officials in Manchester, N.H. the nation is headed for trouble because it has "a leader who doesn't tell the truth."

Meanwhile Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who described Johnson as a "deep per se man" nevertheless said he couldn't pledge right now to back Johnson for re-election.

"That depends on who is running against him," Church said Sunday when asked at a meeting of the Idaho Press Club in Boise about backing Johnson in 1968.

"I can tell you what I'd do if they nominated Nixon," Church said of the former Republican vice president. "He'd just get us in deeper."

George Wallace, the ex-Alabama governor who says he'll run for president on a third party ticket if neither major party builds a conservative platform, talked on national television of being threatened.

He didn't go into detail about the threats but said he's received them from "revolutionaries, activists, and Communists—the same people who want us to lose the war in Vietnam."

Wallace blamed the nation's ills on Communists, anarchists and activists. "There are no underlying causes to burn down a city unless you don't love your country," he said. "Slums and unemployment have nothing to do with it."

Illinois Pilot Dies In Crash Trying To Land

IRON MOUNTAIN (AP)—The second crash in four days involving aircraft of Mid-Continental Airlines Inc. Sunday took the life of another pilot.

Midwestern and Wisconsin authorities said Monday recovered the body of Gary Cordell, 35, from the charred wreckage of his twin-engine Cessna 441 in a dense wooded area of Florence, Wis.

The plane crashed about 8:30 p.m. Sunday after making several unsuccessful attempts to land in a driving rain at Ford Airport near Iron Mountain. On its final approach, authorities said, the plane clipped off the top of trees for about a half mile before it plummeted to the ground and exploded.

Visibility at the time was poor and another Mid-Continental plane scheduled to leave Iron Mountain last night was unable to get off the ground.

Has Mail Route Mid-Continental Airlines has a government contract to fly air-taxi mail routes between the Upper Peninsula and the Milwaukee-Chicago area, but officials said there was no mail aboard Cordell's flight.

The twin-engine Beechcraft was en route to Iron Mountain to make the mail pickup at 9 p.m. resuming service which is suspended over the weekend.

Last Wednesday, a single-engine airplane owned by Mid-Continental crashed northwest of Atholstone, Wis., taking the life of its pilot, 21-year-old Robert Ness, also of Morris.

Frank Hansen of Morris, Ill., owner of Mid-Continental who was in Iron Mountain Sunday night, said that last week's crash was not connected with the air-taxi mail operation, however. Hansen said the single-engine plane was owned by the company, but was rented by Ness and had no part in the air-taxi flights.

He had no immediate comment on how last night's fatal accident would affect mail service.

Cross River Site of the crash is in Florence County across the Menominee River about 1 1/2 miles from Ford Airport. Unable to reach the densely wooded scene via Wisconsin roads, authorities Sunday crossed the Menominee River by boat to locate the wreckage, but because of the rain and darkness postponed the search for the pilot's body until this morning.

The area near Aurora, Wis., is about four miles from the nearest road.

Florence and Dickinson county sheriff's officers and the Dickinson County Area Search and Rescue Squad participated in the search.

The Mississippi Highway Patrol unit at Gulfport reported the two fatalities and said some other people were missing.

Industrial Health Needs Sound $s: Harnischfeger

Walter Harnischfeger, chairman of the board of directors of Harnischfeger Corp., visited its Escanaba works in the weekend on his way to Washington and was asked how he found conditions in Germany, from which he is just returned.

"The Kiesinger government," he said "is trying to do the right thing and he is an able man. Of course he was a Nazi, but who wasn't in Germany of that time? Erhard is out because he wanted to balance the budget and there is a decline in employment and the people don't have the money to buy as many automobiles."

"I attended the international automobile show at Frankfurt and sales were off. It could happen here if prices get too high. The manufacturer has got to add the price of labor to his product."

"I can read German and I read the newspapers over there and they are very much interested in our give-away programs to foreign countries and in currencies that are not backed by gold. The Zurich (Swiss) bankers say that less capital is going to be available for investment and that competition is going to be terrific."

"The (West) German government has got to export to live and DeGaulle has left a lot of uneasiness with his trip to Poland and his playing with the communists. To stabilize international trade two things are necessary; confidence and the right political climate. We keep talking about the underdeveloped nations, but some guys under a coconut tree may be happier than you or I and we are going to make them Cadillac owners!"

"Some of the top Swiss bankers say that we (Americans) have got to get our own house in order in the matter of finance and in civil rights. Our basic problem is paper money. We are debasing the currency faster than we can earn it."

"Europeans have had to live on exports for many years and so they will settle for income increases of two or three percent to remain competitive, but here it is not that easy."

North Central Turbo-Prop Serving

Sunday was a Red Letter Day in Upper Peninsula commercial aviation. It brought first North Central Airlines turbo-prop airliner service to the Upper Peninsula.

North Central has used Convair airliners for more than three years on its U. P. flights, since it phased out its DC-3 airliners in this area. The Convair 440s had two Pratt & Whitney R2800 piston engines that developed 2000 horsepower each.

Sunday's morning flight on North Central to Escanaba and Marquette with a Convair 440 converted to a Convair 580 was 100 miles an hour speedier, safer, more economical and more reliable. The Convair 580 has two Allison (GM) turbine motors that develop 3750 horsepower each and power four bladed propellers of larger size than the three bladed props used on the 440s.

North Central is the first air-carrier with 580s to use new non-skid brakes. Electronic

Student Control

Students on the campus of the University of Wisconsin and elsewhere have created disturbances because recruiters for the Dow Chemical Co. of Midland appeared on campus, along with representatives of other industries, seeking young graduates for jobs in industry. The offense here was that Dow is one of the firms that make napalm, the fiery weapon used in the Vietnam war.

The singling out of this firm as a target for student hatred is, of course, an indiscriminating thing, because there are so many firms in this country which are manufacturing the things we need to wage the war in Vietnam. But Dow is easily identifiable as the maker of a war material which has been excoriated as the destroyer of civilian victims as well as the Viet Cong. To young people who burn draft cards it makes sense that they oppose the war by preventing representatives of a chemical company with a defense contract from trying to hire graduates on their campus.

In our own state at the University of Michigan the Michigan Daily, the university student newspaper, has published a series of articles about the "classified" (secret) research being conducted at the university under contract with the Defense Department. In subsequent developments, some student groups have arranged a "teach-in" on the subject of classified research to protest this university involvement in military matters.

The university has taken a rather calm, judicious view of the student protest, but we are less inclined to be so calm. The student protest, we believe, is improper and even outrageous. It is about time we believe, for parents to be acknowledged that their children are undisciplined and beyond their control, or to notify their children that their involvement in any such effort at student veto of administration policy will be the signal for their summary recall home.

There is an old and honored principle of conduct which applies here. You change an offensive law, you do not violate it, and so with university discipline, you avoid attendance at a university whose policies are repugnant; you do not substitute student control for administration control, because such a change is irresponsible and leaves the public which pays for the university operation without effective control of it.

What our students protesting the war through this ill-considered and emotional action object to is a small part of the university's research on classified contracts out of a total of 1,500 individual research projects underway on campus, but morality is never a matter of size or proportion.

The essential right or wrong of the university, engaging in scientific work necessary to our defense establishment is what we're concerned with. The work could, of course, be contracted with private industries where there would be no student protests. The allegation here is that it is improper for a university to be involved in the nation's defense establishment. The students, of course, profess that the war in Vietnam is improper; they substitute their judgment in this matter for that of the President, the Congress, the Defense Department, the State Department and the American people.

Many Americans — many parents of University of Michigan students — are immensely unhappy about the war and wish we weren't involved in it. But they are not suggesting that we bug out and pull the linchpin that stabilizes our government—dishonoring our commitments, dismaying our allies and compounding the uncertainties and indecisions of our own people.

The university points out:

1. All research grants are in response to the interest of faculty and students; all contracts are result of faculty proposals. The government is going to the university for skills; the university isn't seeking contracts for which it would hire personnel.

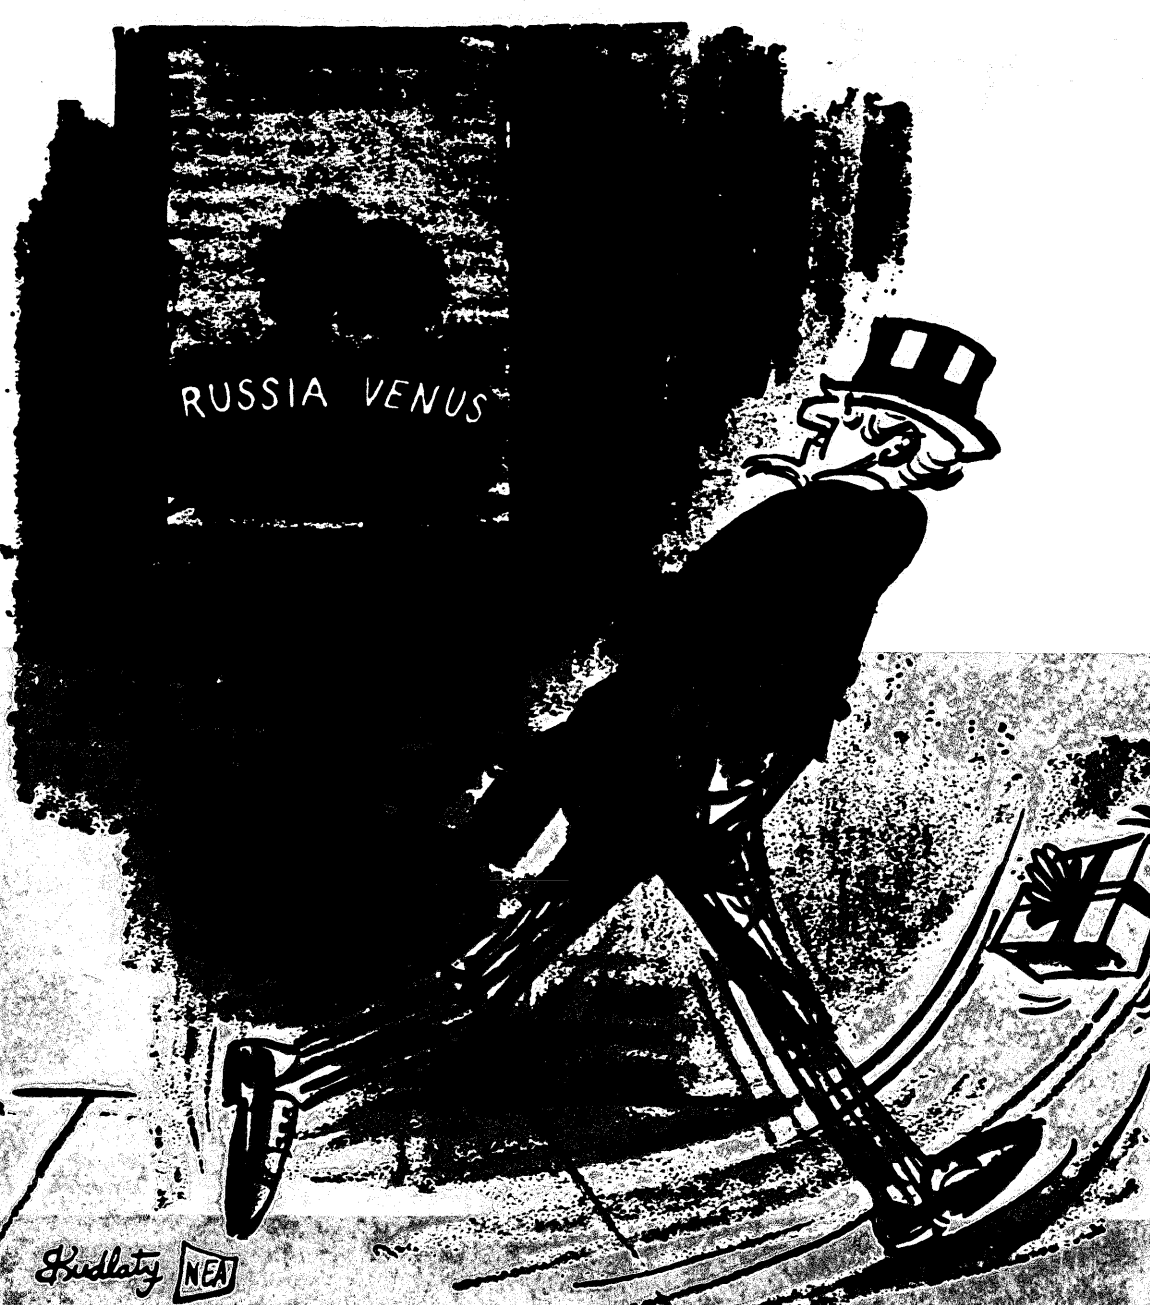

2. Dean of Engineering Gordon Van Wylen says academic freedom should include research programs; not saying there shouldn't be limits on research, but remembering that there can be a tyranny of peers as oppressive as a tyranny of administration.

3. Faculty researchers examine the value of their research to society as a whole, taking into account the realities of the world as it is and seasoning their accounting with idealism to project a world as they'd like it.

4. Many engineering advances at present are related to our defense program. This may be unfortunate, but it's a fact of life. Any school which cut off defense research would automatically cut itself off from a substantial amount of evolving technology. This would prevent the faculty from keeping abreast of its fields and students from doing research, which produces many unclassified theses from classified research.

5. "Classified" is a cloak-and-dagger term that creates much confusion. Simply, it means that properly "cleared" persons are given access to classified material and information, and that research results are reviewed from national security considerations before public release. The Project Michigan Radar Symposium was a three-day classified meeting. It was attended by 700 persons.

Most industries practice a secrecy not unlike that sought by the government in its defense research.

Merit Plan To Pick Judges Is Sought

GRAND RAPIDS—A city of 350,000 signatures on petitions by next June so the amendment will qualify for the November, 1968, ballot.

The Grand Rapids conference was sponsored by the Michigan Citizens' Committee for Judicial Selection and Tenure, Detroit, the League of Women Voters of Michigan, and the American Judicature Society, a Chicago-based organization of 28,000 judges, lawyers and laymen concerned with the administration of justice in the United States and abroad.

Under a "Michigan Plan" adopted in principle Oct. 20 by leaders from 25 communities, judicial candidates would be nominated by a bi-partisan commission of citizens and lawyers with the governor making the final appointment from among the commission-approved nominees.

The judge would take office immediately and stand for election three years later on his record only and without opposition. If he was retained by the voters, he would serve until he resigned or retired. If he wasn't, the governor would appoint a commission-approved replacement who would stand for election three years later.

Edward L. Cushman, executive vice president, Wayne State University, Detroit, chairman of the citizens' group, said the plan is similar to one in effect in 12 other states. Most of Missouri judges have been selected under it since 1940. A constitutional amendment incorporating elements of the Michigan plan will be drafted shortly and a statewide campaign will be planned to obtain er are reasonable legal ability and the exercise of independent thought and action.

To achieve this, Michigan relies entirely on the elective system. With the exception of the supreme court, any lawyer can be a candidate for judicial office. For the supreme court, any lawyer may be a candidate and present his candidacy to a partisan political convention which in turn is supposed to choose those with the best legal ability who will exercise independence of thought and action.

The citizens at large then vote. However, he indicated that while many qualified men have been so chosen with this method, many others have been selected for reasons such as their name.

"As long as the elective system exists," he said, "I don't think this can be changed."

East clattered up with the king to drop his partner's queen, and the jack of diamonds became the tenth trick for declarer."

Oswald: "Last's play of the diamond king is typical of what I call rubber bridge carelessness. East could see that declarer was sure of his contract and had lost interest. No Gift, Marriage Is An Achievement

Dear Ann: Yesterday I picked up a book of pop poetry by a fellow named Ronald Gross. A poem in the book was a take-off on a letter to you from an unhappy wife. Will you please respond to the question in the poem? Here it is:

Epithalamium
I can't understand why the career girls
Who write to you feel they are missing
So much in life by not being married.

Where do they get the idea That a husband is the answer to everything?
I wish one of these girls would take mine.
I'm not bitter, Ann—just experienced.

Marriage is not the dream it is cracked up to be. I had a wonderful job when I got married.
But I cheerfully gave it up to be a household drudge.
My husband is a nice guy but dull.

Let me tell you that marriage is plenty overrated. Many single girls write to say they are lonesome.
Well, I'm married and I'm lonesome too.
I'm not a cold person, Ann. If that's what you're thinking, I never refuse him.

The single woman who supports herself can travel. And spend her money on anything that strikes her fancy. She can have a date, a romance, or a full-blown affair. If she feels like it. She can turn love off and on like an electric light bulb. So why don't you level with the girls, Ann.

NEW YORK READER
Dear New York Reader: I have leveled with the girls. In 688 newspapers I tell them that ALL marriages are happy.
It's living together after wards that's tough.
I tell them that a good marriage is not a gift.
It's an achievement.
That marriage is not for kids. It takes guts and maturity.
It separates the men from the boys.
And the women from the girls.
I tell them that marriage is tested daily by the ability to compromise.
To give and take.
Its survival can depend on being smart enough to know what's worth fighting about.

Or making an issue of Or even mentioning. Marriage is giving—And more important—for giving.
And it is almost always the wife who must do these things. Then, as if that were not enough,
She must be willing to forget what she forgave.
Often that is the hardest part. Oh, I have leveled all right. If they don't get my message, Buster,
It's because they don't want to get it.
Rose-colored glasses are never made in bifocals.
Nobody wants to read the small print in dreams.

Bob George Romney
Governor of Michigan
Lansing

The enclosed news release from the Chicago Tribune Oct. 15 reveals that the Michigan Department of Conservation has released several thousand coho to the State of Wisconsin while the department is unable to stock the rivers and streams of both Little and Big Bays de Noc.

Copies of this release have been mailed to Representative Charles Vanaman and Senator Thomas Schwegerl.

Walter G. Lewke,
Manager
Escanaba
Chamber of Commerce

The Tribune article stated in part:

"Wisconsin may develop some salmon fishing, and already has obtained from Michigan several thousand cohos for experimental hatchery rearing. In addition, Wisconsin hopes to obtain 150,000 coho eggs from Michigan this fall. Any stocking of cohos by Wisconsin will probably be in Lake Superior streams, although Wisconsin has a few suitable streams emptying into Lake Michigan.

"Michigan stocked its first cohos in five streams last spring. When planted in the Big Huron River, on the Upper Peninsula, and in the Lower Peninsula's Platte, Big, and Little Manistee rivers, and Bear Creek, they weighed an average of an ounce or two. Today, the Lake Michigan cohos run around 12 pounds on the average, but some go more than 20 pounds.

"Cohos planted in the Lake Michigan streams have had a phenomenal growth rate due to the lake's alewife population. Cohos are being caught in Lake Superior off the mouth of the Big Huron, but they are much smaller than the Lake Michigan cohos, ranging from 3 1/2 to 7 pounds. Alewives, the major food for Lake Michigan cohos, are practically non-existent in Lake Superior.

"Last April Michigan stocked young Chinook or 'king' salmon in the Big Huron, Little Manistee, and Muskegon rivers. Next spring more young Chinooks will be planted in the same rivers. Chinooks are a 'four-year cycle fish.' — meaning none is expected to return to natal streams for spawning until the fall of 1971. At that time, or before, sport fishermen may have the pleasant shock of hooking Chinook salmon weighing 40 pounds or more.

"Work to improve the Great Lakes lake trout population continues, and through the auspices of the Great Lakes Fishery Commission, more lake trout are to be stocked in Lakes Michigan and Superior. Both Wisconsin and Michigan still have, and will continue, sport extensive programs for stocking steelhead or rainbow trout in Lake Michigan."

Frustrated Viking Needs Boat Berth

COMMERCE — AP — Ross Morpew quit his job, sold his house and got rid of his car—all for a homemade sailboat he planned to cruise the Bahamas.

But now he faces a Great Lakes winter with no place to berth his 36-foot, 14-ton craft.

The 24-year-old Morpew, who with his blond beard looks every inch a Viking, and his wife sold everything they had last June when the weather was warmer. They planned to beat the cold winter of the Great Lakes, and cruise in the balmy Bahamas.

But that terrible commodity, money, is the only thing holding us back," Morpew, now living with his wife and 8-year-old son, Peter, at his parents' house here, figures, will take a year before he gets the thermophore to beat Meka II ready for the high seas.

Seek Place In Water

In the meantime, he says, he and his family plan to live abroad. That is, if they can find a place to put it in the water. It seems not too many marinas are fond of the notion of a family living in a boat tied up in subfreezing water in the Detroit river.

The name Meka, incidentally, is a Hopi Indian word meaning "loyal, stout companion," Morpew says.

Meka I was a somewhat more frail craft, a 20-foot cruiser Morpew built when he quit high school in nearby Walled Lake. Meka broke up on the edge of a hurricane off Norfolk, Va., while Morpew and his bride were on their honeymoon.

Forced To Move

Morpew, a man with salt water flowing in his veins if ever there was one, has been hounded by troubles ever since. He was forced to move from a boat the size of Meka II is nearly impossible to guide into a dock under sail, and Morpew had to take a tow from the Coast Guard to avoid being swept against a Detroit River boat house.

Has Fireplace

Living aboard Meka during the winter months, when shipping shuns the Great Lakes, shouldn't be too bad, Morpew insists. Meka is equipped with a small cast iron fireplace and a propane heating system.

Morpew plans to use a pump to bubble heated air through the water to prevent ice from forming around Meka.

So far, Meka II has cost $21,000, and has taken 4,500 hours of work, Morpew figures on another $3,000 to complete the interior before she's all set for her maiden voyage.

"I guess I'll have to look for a job," concedes Morpew, a draftsman by trade.

"But when we finally get going," he adds, "the sea is my life."

ROBERT J. GARDINER, 27, son of Mrs. Geraldine Wilcox, 509 S. 16th St., received the silver wings of an Army aviator and was appointed a warrant officer Oct. 24 upon graduation from the Army Aviation School, Ft. Rucker, Ala. He was taught fire techniques and tactical maneuvers for helicopters supporting ground troops in combat and also received instruction in helicopter maintenance and survival techniques.

Botulism Kills 17,000 Ducks

CORCORAN, Calif. (AP) — Conservation workers attempting to save thousands of migratory birds from a waterfowl botulism epidemic along the Pacific Flyway have learned of a second outbreak.

A Fish and Game Department spokesman said the latest outbreak was in the Merced area, about 140 miles north of this southern San Joaquin Valley area where the disease already has killed an estimated 15,000 ducks.

"Although this newest outbreak is relatively small compared to the epidemic in Kings County," said Dave Selleck, department game manager, "2,000 birds have died already."

Meanwhile about 50 federal and state conservation officers fight the toxic disease on 4,000 acres of flooded irrigation land in the Tule Lake Basin of the San Joaquin Valley.

American Cities Lose Character, Says Professor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — American cities, says a professor of architecture, are becoming look-alikes—so devoid of character they're nonplaces.

"If you were suddenly set down in any one of a dozen major cities," Eric Pawley of the University of Southern California told an interviewer, "you would have a difficult time determining where you were. You might be in Los Angeles' West Side, Chicago's North Shore, Boston's Boylston Street."

What's the answer? Bringing all of a community's resources together, to solve its problems—even the problem of making a place into a place people will remember.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Negro Birth Rate Declining In U.S.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — An authority on population trends says the Negro birth rate is declining in the United States, but that there will be a growing proportion of Negroes for some time.

The statement was made here by Dr. Dudley Kirk, professor of demography at Stanford University's Food Research Institute, at a National Academy of Science meeting.

Kirk said there is a greater range of fertility among Negroes than among whites. He added that although reproduction of urban, educated and middle-class Negroes is similar to that of white, fertility of low income and rural Negroes is much higher than that of whites.

At present, the Negro birth rate is declining as the high fertility elements become a smaller part of the Negro socio-economic structure," Kirk said.

"In the population as a whole there is and will be for some time a growing population of Negroes—the percentage of non-white births increased from 14.4 in 1950 to 16.4 in 1963."

Plan Protest Next Wednesday

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Members of a University of Michigan student activist group have announced plans to stage a sit-in and teach-in protest next Wednesday to demonstrate against classified military research being carried on by the university. The protest was scheduled by the Voice of the Party, campus chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society.

Labor Mediation Board Order On Police Confirmed

The City of Escanaba has received notice from the Michigan Labor Mediation Board that it has taken the action recommended by its hearing examiner, James McCormick, after a hearing in Escanaba on April 4, 1967 ordering it to recognize and bargain with the Teamsters Union for wages and other benefits for its city policemen.

McCormick announced at the local hearing that he was taking the usual step of announcing his recommendation to the Mediation Board in order to expedite things. Despite this, the board did not act until Oct. 25.

Its order to the city instructs it to cease and desist from refusing to recognize and bargain with the Teamsters for its police force, "excluding the chief of police, captain and all other employees."

The city is instructed, upon request, to bargain with the union, to place notices of the order on public view for 30 days, and to notify the board within 20 days of receipt of the order and what steps the City of Escanaba has taken to comply.

City Attorney John G. Erickson informed City Manager George Harvey that until such time as the Michigan State Supreme Court acts upon the appeal of the city from the decision and order of the Michigan Labor Mediation Board of Nov. 3, 1966 and the hearing examiner's decision and recommendation of April 4, 1967, it is recommended that the position taken by the city not be changed.

The state of appeal of the order by the city to the Supreme Court stays enforcement until a court decision.

Five Arrested On Beer Count

Five Escanaba teenagers pleaded innocent in Municipal Court today to charges of being minors in possession of beer.

One of the youths also pleaded innocent to a charge of reckless driving. Hearing on all of the charges was set for 10:30 a.m. Friday, Nov. 3.

Escanaba police arrested the following youths as minors in possession: Thomas A. Eugene, 17, of 1910 22nd Ave. S. James M. Jones, 17, of 528 S. 10th St. Thomas M. Gannon, 18, of 426 S. 15th St. and Arnold C. Anderson, 17, of Wells.

Officers reported finding beer or another alcoholic beverage in a car stopped about 2:18 p.m. Sunday on N. 21st St.

Police said the car was observed going west on Ludington St. at a high rate of speed. The automobile turned off Ludington St. avoiding a traffic light by driving through Hanley's Service Station. Police said the car also failed to stop for a stop sign before it was finally stopped in the 1400 block of N. 21st St.

The driver, Thomas Eugene, was charged with reckless driving. Eugene was released after posting $100 bond on the reckless driving charge and $25 on the minor in possession count. His companions also were released after each posting $25 bond.

Navy Fliers Hit Barge Repair Yard At Hanoi

SAIGON (AP) — Racing against the approaching northeast monsoon, U.S. bomber pilots carried their furious campaign against the heartland of North Vietnam through its sixth straight day Sunday.

U.S. military spokesmen said the foul weather apparently is starting to close in providing North Vietnam with a natural protective blanket, but conditions along the coast allowed Navy pilots to hammer the Cat Bi MIG airbase, the Kien An barge repair facility and the Chi Lai transshipment points all within seven miles of the center of Haiphong, North Vietnam's chief port.

It was the first raid of the war on the barge repair yard. North Vietnam claimed three U.S. planes were shot down, but the U.S. Command made no report of any losses. Since the heavy raids on the Hanoi-Haiphong area began last Tuesday, the U.S. Command has announced the loss of 15 planes and 16 fliers.

There was also no confirmation of a Hanoi claim that a B52 strategic bomber was shot down just north of the demilitarized zone Sunday.

In the 26 months the big high-altitude bombers have been attacking in Vietnam, none has been shot down but four have collided in the air over the sea and crashed and another crashed at Da Nang while making emergency landing with two of its eight engines out.

In the ground war in South Vietnam, U.S. and South Vietnamese forces beat off an attack by about 1,000 Viet Cong on a rubber plantation 70 miles north of Saigon after nearly 14 hours of fighting.

The U.S. Command said 145 enemy soldiers, 3 Americans and 14 South Vietnamese killed while 19 Americans and 37 South Vietnamese were wounded.

David Hosking, Rte. 1, Gladstone, paid a fine of $50 and $5 court costs in Municipal Court today after he pleaded guilty to an assault and battery charge. Mildred Aho, police meter maid, signed the complaint after Hosking tore up a parking ticket she had issued to his car on Ludington St. Officers said Hosking also took her police uniform cap in the incident at 12:58 p.m. Saturday.

Staffers Stick With Ferency

LANSING (AP) — Four of the six Democratic State Central Committee office staffers who resigned last week in a dispute with party leaders have decided to stay on the job as long as Zoltan Ferency remains as party chairman.

One of the six, former director of party development James Harrison, said today the four had been asked to remain at full pay by the officers of the State Central Committee.

"Some of the officers of the Democratic State Central Committee have reconsidered their decision of Oct. 25 and have asked several members of the Lansing staff to remain on the job at full pay," he said.

"The members of the Lansing staff who have not as yet found other employment have agreed to remain in order to keep John F. Kennedy House open and to assist Zoltan Ferency as long as he remains as state Democratic chairman," Harrison said.

Harrison said he and Ferency's former secretary, Mrs. Claudia Hall, will not remain, adding that they had not been asked to stay.

Burroughs UAW Strike At End

DETROIT (AP) — Burroughs Corp. operations at the Tireman, Schaefer and Plymouth plants will resume Tuesday morning, the company says, following settlement of a 30-day strike by the United Auto Workers.

The three-year agreement provides a total of 78 cents an hour in increased wages and fringe benefits.

The strike had idled a total of 4,500 workers.

CONVERTIBLES

Used to mean almost everyone's favorite car. When the sun came out, all you had to do was push a button and you switched from a closed to an open car. These days when you hear someone talk about having a new "convertible," they're just as apt to mean a dual-purpose sofa as an automobile.

Studio couches, or small beds which could double as a kind of casual sofa, have been with us for a long time. The post-war trend has been toward pieces which are more truly convertible... beautiful enough to be the focal point of living room or den, yet hiding beneath their beauty a single or a fold-out double bed.

It's easy to find reasons for the increasing popularity of true convertible sofas. Building costs are one factor. They mean smaller homes, as well as more people living in apartments where space is at a premium. But the chief reason is just that today's convertibles are so much less bulky, so much better at both of their functions... a handsome sofa and a comfortable bed for guests.

You'll find a distinctive selection of these convertibles in our showroom in a wide choice of styles to complement your other furnishings beautifully. Stop in and look them over!

Jack-O-Lantern From Pumpkin Is Real Feat

EAST LANSING (AP)—Turning a plain old pumpkin into a scary Halloween jack-o-lantern can be quite a feat.

First you have to choose a likely candidate — a pumpkin that's round and firm and flat on the bottom so you can set it on the windowsill.

Then you have to carve out the face and keep your fingers crossed that the fruit—that's right, fruit—doesn't split while you're carving.

A pumpkin expert at Michigan State University, horticulturist Dr. Clark W. Nicklow, says there really isn't any way to insure a whole pumpkin when you're finished carving.

"The only thing I can think of is—be careful," he warns. But if you think jack-o-lantern sculpture can be tricky, think about the farmer who grows the pumpkins. He has to worry about lopsided products.

"One of our biggest research problems is lopsided pumpkins," says Dr. Robert Carolus, another MSU horticulturist who's studied pumpkin patterns.

"These grow too fast in hot weather and cannot support their own weight," he explains. "Lopsided pumpkins are formed when the outer wall is not thick enough."

This can be corrected by cutting down on the nitrogen fertilizer and planting pumpkins in higher and drier places. This way, the pumpkins will grow slower and have thicker walls and they will be more symmetrical.

For instance, a little pumpkin sitting in a patch absorbs water and grows. The more water, the more growth.

Back to the Jack-o-lantern. Once the goblins have gone and Halloween is over, there's not much that can be done with "Jack." Eating is out, because the fruit has been exposed to air and maybe even candle wax. Planting isn't probable either, Nicklow says.

"We don't recommend saving any of the seed," he says, "because of the possibility of disease carryover." The disease isn't anything that could hurt you. The pumpkin wouldn't get as far as your pie.

The diseased seed—if there is any—could collapse the pumpkin vine before the fruit grows or it could rot the fruit, Nicklow says.

Here are a few points about pumpkins from Nicklow and Carolus:

—It's called pumpkin after the French word "pompon" which means "cooked by the sun."

—Less than 50 per cent of most pumpkin pie mixes are pumpkin. Would you believe squash?

Best pumpkins are grown in corn fields, the theory being plants get protection from the corn.

—Most pumpkins today are natives of Central America and Mexico.

—MSU researchers once grew a 135-pound pumpkin.

Grives Named Luce Agent

Peter C. Grives of Newberry has been named natural resource agent for the Cooperative Extension Service in Luce County. He will assume his new duties Nov. 1.

Grives is a 1959 graduate of MSU and for the past three years has been area forester for the Michigan Department of Conservation at Newberry. Prior to this assignment he was an assistant forester at Ishpeming.

A native of East Grand Rapids, he earned a degree in forestry at MSU and from 1959-60 was assistant forester at Auburn University in Alabama. From 1960-62 he was with the Lake States Conservation Corporation at Waukesha, Wis.

The new Extension Service agent will direct programs in Luce County and also work with colleagues in area development in neighboring Chippewa and Mackinac counties.

Grives is married and the father of two young sons.

Bring that extra room into the house where it's warm.

Install Gas baseboard heat. A compact, self-contained unit in the outside wall of any add-on room or enclosed porch warms up everyone fast.

It doesn't take up floor space and doesn't need ducts. Thermostatic controls hold temperatures steady. And all you pay is about $20 a year for an average-size room. That's about one-fifth the operating cost of electric baseboard heat.

U. S. Deserters In Vietnam Turn To Black Market

SAIGON (AP) — A number of U.S. servicemen desert in Vietnam and try to live by dealing on the black market, pinning or occasionally by peddling marijuana, a U.S. military police source reports.

The number of deserters at large runs from 40 to 50 at any given time, the source said, and their freedom lasts from a few days to several months.

The deserters are able to go underground most successfully in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese section. Those with luck make contact with black marketeers who furnish them with counterfeit PX ration cards to make large purchases for resale on the flourishing Saigon black market.

Some of them also join up with prostitutes and live partly off their earnings, the source said.

A few peddle marijuana to other GIs, but the drug is so easily available this isn't very lucrative trade.

Escanaba Ends Perfect Football Season By Topping Holy Name, 38-7, In Finale

By RAY CRANDALL
(Press Sports Editor)

The Escanaba Eskimos ran out of football worlds to conquer Saturday as they put the finishing touch on a flawless campaign by whipping city rival Holy Name, 38-7.

The final emphatic triumph gave Coach Jerry Cvangros' 1967 gridgers a 9-0 record for the year, sole possession of the Great Northern Conference trophy, a victory string of 11 games and a tight grip on the No. 1 rung of the Upper Peninsula prep grid ladder.

The unblemished season is the first for an Escanaba team since 1961 when Al-Sigman's club won eight in a row and was named Upper Peninsula champion.

The Eskimos did a workmanlike job on a shorthanded Holy Name crew in the finale.

Held to a 7-0 margin in the first half, the Eskimos punched out another touchdown midway in the third quarter and then literally blew the Crusaders off the gridiron with three touchdowns in the final two minutes of the period.

Escanaba's defense, a season-long trademark, was so tough that Holy Name was unable to get past midfield until the waning moments of the third quarter at which time the Eskimo lineup was liberally sprinkled with reserves.

With the heavy smell of a perfect season and a solid shot at the coveted Floyd Barber Trophy in their noses, the Eskimos turned in another of their patented "Starke" games. They blended their usual batch of hard-nosed defense and machine-like offense to dominate all phases of the contest.

The Eskimos ground out 228 yards pushing in 59 trips and senior quarterback Steve Miketinae hit six receivers in 12 attempts for 121 yards. They also recovered four Holy Name fumbles, all in the second half.

Olsen Scores Twice
Coach Tom Olsen's Crusaders made a valiant effort to stay with the Eskimos but couldn't make the grade. Holy Name was limited to 53 yards on the ground and 34 in the air.

Junior fullback Jim Olsen played the lead in the Eskimo touchdown cast, hitting paydirt twice on short bucks. Miketinae pitched one TD pass to end John Moberg and sneaked a yard for another. Defensive star Butch LaBay recovered a fumble in the Holy Name end zone and reserve quarterback Gregg Johnson tallied the final Eskimo touchdown on a five yard keeper with seven seconds remaining in the game.

Olsen was Escanaba's leading ground gainer with 60 yards in 14 trips. Nine other runners checked in with plus yardage.

The outstanding runner on the field Saturday was a member of the losing team. Senior halfback Chris Young fought for 63 yards in 19 trips against the best schoolboy defense in the Upper Peninsula. He also caught one of the two passes completed by sophomore quarterback Bob McGinn and in addition turned in a superb performance on defense.

Dan Young Standout
Dan Young, a 5 foot 11 inch, 185-pound sophomore line-backer, was another bright spot in the Holy Name defense and gained 24 yards in seven trips with the ball. Other Crusaders who stood out in defeat were tough Pat Verhamme, Pete Quinn, Dennis Allingham, Jerry Villeneuve, Tom DeMerse, Glenn Theoret, Mike Blison and Dick Kobasic who recovered one of the two Esky fumbles.

They were no match for the usual Esky defensive demons, however. LaBay, Vital VanDrese, John Milekic, John Bennett, Gregg Johnson, John Moberg, Bob Schaut, Dave Miller, Steve Stropich and Jerry Cole were players who came through with outstanding efforts.

The teams locked horns in a scoreless first period highlighted by an Escanaba fumble at midfield on a fourth down play and a pass interception in the same area by Milekic. Late in the quarter Miketinae shook loose on a 43 yard touchdown jaunt that was nullified by a clipping penalty. The Crusader defense stopped the threat on their own eight yard line.

Midway in the second frame the Eskimos staged a 60 yard drive in 13 plays. Tom Boyle peeled off 43 yards on an end around and a pass interference penalty helped the cause. Olsen stormed off tackle for the final five yards and Gregg Olson booted the conversion to make it 7-0 at halftime.

Escanaba pounded to the Holy Name 35-0 at the second half kickoff but again the Crusader defense rose to the occasion. However, VanDrese hoped on a loose ball on Holy Name's next play and Esky went all the way in one play as Miketinae tossed a picture pass to Moberg for a 37 yard TD. The receiver was all alone on the Holy Name 10. That made it 13-0.

The roof caved in on Holy Name in the closing minutes of the third quarter.

The Eskimos ripped off 53 yards in nine plays with Ken Robitaille zooming on a 26 yard jaunt to bring the fans to their feet. Miketinae sneaked home from the one yard line to spread the margin to 19-0.

Two plays later McGinn was jolted loose from the ball by a furious pass rush and LaBay covered it inside the end zone. Olsen's PAT made it 26-0.

Reserves Score TD
Two more plays by Holy Name and Esky came up with the ball again as Olsen and Randy Johnson threw themselves on a McGinn boggle on the Crusader two yard line. Olsen juggled it in on his first try and it was 32-0 after Verhamme blocked Olsen's PAT attempt.

Holy Name staged a long drive early in the fourth quarter, reaching the Esky seven before Chris Young's fumble was recovered by Gregg Johnson. Olsen fumbled right back and Kobasic recovered on the seven for Holy Name. The Crusaders pushed it over in four plays with McGinn jamming into the middle for the final yard. Verhamme's kick cut the margin to 32-7.

Escanaba's reserves took command for a 52-yard touchdown drive in the final five minutes of the game. Jim Derouin, Mike Dupont, Tom Ryan and Johnson juggled the leather to the three from where Johnson went in on a keeper to make it 38-7 with seven seconds to go.

Witching Crew Haunts House In Name Of Charity

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP) — Forty housewives in this plush Seattle suburb will band together in a broken-down shack this Halloween to terrify children in the name of charity.

It's an annual spoof on spooks sponsored by the Overlake Service League. 500 who have been using their wits to raise money for good causes since 1911.

In this case, the project involves turning housewives into hags, putting them in squalid houses and charging people 25 cents each to see them. Last year, 18,000 paid and the league raised $5,000 for impoverished families.

The project is billed as House Haunting, and after five seasons the ladies are getting proficient at it.

The first problem was to find a house with potential and no price tag. This year's seven-room specimen was donated by a Bellevue contractor who eventually will rip down the building.

For now, it's the women who have smashing ideas.

Armed with hammers, saws and shovels, they have made a few basic modifications—like turning a second-story window into the front door. The stairway was built by another contractor.

Over-all ugliness was enhanced by covering walls and ceilings with black paper. The corners thrive with spiders and bats. Witched-up women double as child comforters when things get a bit too convincing.

Separate dramas unfold in each room. Hansel and Gretel are boiled in an upstairs bedroom and right next door, a witch doctor brews a tasty dish called people. Downstairs, the mad doctor performs a messyotomy on the dining room table and a fuzzy five-foot spider peers out of what might have been a closet.

Other distractions are the Pirate's Cave, the Witches of Oz and the Man of Oz. All are animated—either by women who work in two-hour shifts or by improvised power units.

The house is open daily during the week prior to Halloween night, capping one year of planning and a week of actual construction.

When it's over, the witches return home with a familiar problem—how to dress up their houses for Christmas.

Hay Is Marijuana

SEATTLE (AP) — A grocery store owner complained to police here that two long-haired youths, who asked to use his office grinder, had left it jammed with hay. The "hay" turned out to be marijuana. Detective Ray Varney said.

Reagan Receives Letter Intended For Gov. Romney

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — It happened again: Gov. Ronald Reagan got someone else's message.

This time it was a letter from Florida Gov. Claude Kirk's extradition secretary to Michigan Gov. George Romney asking extradition of a prisoner to Titusville, Fla.

The letter came addressed to Reagan and presumably there was another one intended for Reagan which went to Romney. Both are considered potential candidates for the Republican presidential nomination.

During the recent National Governors Conference, a confidential White House message concerning the conference's debate on Vietnam policy, wound up in Reagan's hands.

Energy can be produced either by splitting atoms or by joining them together—fission or fusion.

Time Switch Has 6:30 A.M. Classes At Lake Superior

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — A dawn patrol of the 6:30 a.m. classes was starting today for students at Lake Superior State College, one of Michigan's newest four-year state-supported schools.

The unusually early starting time was brought about by the college's adherence to the federal time law.

The 6:30 a.m. time will be Central Standard Time as directed by the Michigan Tech Board of Control, ruling body of the Sault campus of Michigan Tech in keeping with the law.

However, to lessen any possible confusion, the 6:30 a.m. starting time will be 7:30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time, adopted by the city of Sault Ste. Marie.

College officials said turning back the hour, keeping in tune with local time yet maintaining the legal time, was necessary to prevent undue hardship on students, faculty and staff.

Ironically, the college had switched last spring from classes on the hour to classes on the half hour as convenience to the students then on Eastern Daylight Time.

LSSC has 1,444 students.
